

Cross matching signals from different devices

These illustrations show two different Special Order TB-60 boards being used to cross match signals from two different devices connected with same-sized ribbon cables. Many other different combinations are available.